

Employee Profile: Sean Sung

Role/Title:

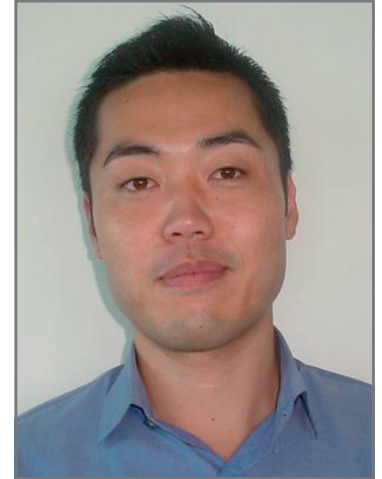

Senior sales analyst

Location:

Singapore

Length of time with Planetpro:

6 years

In college, I studied:

Asia-Pacific marketing in Sydney, Australia

Born & raised in:

South Korea until I was 12 years old.

After that, I moved to Sydney, Australia for over a decade, and then moved to Singapore.

On growing up in two different continents:

South Korea is a developed country but very traditional culture wise. On the other hand, Australia is a totally different place: more relaxed, easy going, outdoorsy. So I can say I have two different personalities: easy going but quiet, active yet calm. It's all a big mix in me.

In my spare time...

I like outdoor activities like swimming, surfing and cycling. That's how I spend my spare time - both competitively and for pleasure as well. I've joined amateur competitions - but I do this stuff mostly because I enjoy it.

Most stimulating thing about the work that I do:

Our team's role is to support others. But every issue that comes our way is new, different. I like the challenge of having to solve problems and issues.

What I like about Planetpro:

My team members.

How Planetpro has been helpful:

The firm shows concern for growing its people personally.

Long-term career goals:

I'm looking for personal development and professional advancement.

Go-to destination:

Bali.

I like surfing and in Singapore we don't have waves. One of my favorite places to surf in Bali is a place that we call 'secret spot.' It's a small beach under a cliff on the way to Dreamland on the west side of the island and it's hard to find on your own. In fact, only a few locals know where it is. The beach doesn't have an official name so people call it by different names, two of which are 'Back Door' and 'Small Christmas.'

Favorite saying:

In Korean, there is a saying, "whatever the pain or the hardness that comes in front of you, it will pass." This is meaningful because it gives me belief in the future. If I'm strong enough, if I believe in myself, I will overcome. That's my inspirational thought.
